

Sliders / Dual-Dimension Edition: The First and Second Seasons
DVD Discography: Region 1

- Season 1

“Pilot” (Disc 1)

Original Airdate: 3/22/95

While working in his basement, Quinn Mallory opens the gateway to parallel worlds. For a test run, Quinn invites co-worker Wade Welles and his teacher, Professor Arturo, along. Upon opening the vortex, Quinn uses too much power, which causes the vortex to suck them in along with Rembrandt “Crying Man” Brown, who happens to be driving by Quinn’s house. The four arrive on a world that experienced an ecological disaster and they will have to survive until the timer hits zero. After barely escaping the last world, the Sliders think they are home. But to their horror, Quinn and Arturo learn they are not and have instead arrived on a world where the Soviet Union rules America. Rembrandt has been arrested for trying to use American money, and the only way to save him is for the others to help a group of revolutionaries rescue their imprisoned leader.

“Summer of Love” (Disc 2)

Original Airdate: 4/19/95

The Sliders are separated on a world where the Hippie movement of the ‘60s is still alive and the U.S. is at war with Australia. Wade and Rembrandt are mistaken for extraterrestrial prophets at a commune, while Quinn and Arturo race to fix a broken timer and rejoin the others.

“The Prince of Wails” (Disc 2)

Original Airdate: 4/12/95

The Sliders arrive in the British States of America, and Arturo’s double is plotting to assassinate a prince and take the throne. When the Sliders inadvertently foil the plot, they come into contact with a group of rebels trying to bring freedom to America.

“Fever” (Disc 1)

Original Airdate: 3/29/95

On a world where penicillin was never invented, Quinn is mistaken for his double, who is believed to be the cause of a massive epidemic. While he is imprisoned by a health agency, Wade shows signs of being infected and only Arturo can find the cure.

“Last Days” (Disc 1)

Original Airdate: 4/5/95

The Sliders arrive on a world that will be destroyed by an asteroid before they are due to slide. Arturo works with Bennis to develop an atom bomb to destroy the asteroid, and Rembrandt gets caught up in an end of the world celebration, while Quinn and Wade confront their feelings for one another.

“The Weaker Sex” (Disc 2)

Original Airdate: 5/3/95

The Sliders arrive on a world where roles are reversed with women holding the positions of power. Arturo becomes a candidate for the mayoral race in San Francisco, trying to bring about a “men’s rights” movement.

“Eggheads” (Disc 2)

Original Airdate: 4/26/95

On a world where being smart is the equivalent of being a sports star, Quinn is a popular college athlete and finds his double had underhanded dealings with gangsters. Meanwhile, Arturo discovers his late wife is alive on this world and tries for reconciliation after learning she is pressing for divorce.

“The King is Back” (Disc 3)

Original Airdate: 5/10/95

Rembrandt has arrived on his dream world, where his double is as popular as Elvis, but has been dead for eight years. As Rembrandt gets to enjoy the fame he’s long since wanted, an old enemy plots to make sure he disappears for good.

“Luck of the Draw” (Disc 3)

Original Airdate: 5/17/95

When the Sliders land on a seemingly ideal world, Wade wins the lottery. But Quinn discovers that the lottery is population control and the winners are killed.

- Season 2

“Into the Mystic” (Disc 3)

Original Airdate: 3/1/96

After separating from Ryan and Henry the dog, the Sliders make a rough landing that reopens Quinn’s bullet wound. On this world of mysticism and superstition, a witch doctor heals Quinn and has brains on the mind when they can’t pay the bill. On the run from the bounty hunters, the Sliders only hope is the mysterious Sorcerer, a man who could possibly get them home.

“Time Again and World” (Disc 4)

Original Airdate: 4/5/96

Wade witnesses a murder just before the slide, but as the Sliders land on the next world, the same murder is about to occur. This time, Wade intervenes and this gets the Sliders involved with a disgraced federal judge and a United States under martial law.

“El Sid” (Disc 4)

Original Airdate: 3/29/96

While the Sliders wait to leave a world of violence, Quinn saves a woman from her criminal boyfriend, Sid. Sid then goes after the Sliders through the vortex, where they all arrive on a world where San Francisco is a maximum security prison.

“Love Gods” (Disc 3)

Original Airdate: 3/8/96

On a world where a biological weapon wiped out most of the male population, Quinn, Rembrandt and Arturo become objects of desire and are imprisoned by the government to be breeders.

“The Good, the Bad and the Wealthy” (Disc 4)

Original Airdate: 3/22/96

On a world where everything west of the Mississippi is part of the nation of Texas, corporate lawyers carry on the gunslinging ways of the Old West. After Quinn gets mixed up in a showdown, he gains the reputation for fastest draw in San Francisco and tries to prevent the hostile takeover of a family-owned computer company.

“As Time Goes By” (Disc 6)

Original Airdate: 7/12/96

The Sliders find themselves running into the same people on each new world, one of them being Quinn’s former love, Daelin. After encounters on worlds where the Spanish rule American and Daelin is an abused wife, the Sliders arrive on a world where time moves backwards and they are accused of Daelin’s murder. Quinn wants to save her, but it could have disastrous results.

“Gillian of the Spirits” (Disc 4)

Original Airdate: 3/15/96

A lightning bolt strikes the vortex during a slide, damaging the timer and trapping Quinn on the astral plane. Now the Sliders are stranded on a world with 1950s technology, and Quinn cannot be seen by the others. He tries to get help from the only who can see or hear him, a girl that has a history of hearing voices.

“Obsession” (Disc 5)

Original Airdate: 5/24/96

Wade literally meets the man of her dreams on a world where ten percent of the population possesses psychic abilities. It turns out he is a psychic and is next in line for the powerful position of Prime Oracle. But the future gets grim fast as Rembrandt and Arturo become prime suspects in a murder that hasn’t happened yet.

“Invasion” (Disc 6)

Original Airdate: 6/28/96

The Sliders land in the middle of a strange invasion and Quinn uses the timer to bring down one of the ships. Before barely escaping, the Sliders learn these new villains can slide at will and are soon captured on the next world. They learn their captors are the Kromaggs and are intent on conquering every parallel world.

“Post Traumatic Slide Syndrome” (Disc 5)

Original Airdate: 5/3/96

The Sliders have come to the most unexpected world of all... home. While Rembrandt and Wade use their sliding adventures to kickstart their careers, Arturo steals the timer and claims sliding as his invention. However, Quinn remains convinced they are not home.

“In Dino Veritas” (Disc 5)

Original Airdate: 4/26/96

The Sliders land on a world where San Francisco is a national park dedicated to the preservation of dinosaurs, including a deadly Allosaurus. A bad fall causes Arturo to injure himself and lose the timer.

“Greatfellas” (Disc 5)

Original Airdate: 5/31/96

On a world where Prohibition was never repealed, Rembrandt’s double is famous for fighting crime and corruption. Unfortunately, the trouble starts when the Sliders land in the middle of a wedding where the groom and bride are from mob organizations.

“The Young and the Relentless” (Disc 6)

Original Airdate: 6/7/96

The Sliders arrive on a world where the young are in charge and Wade and Quinn’s doubles are married corporate executives. Quinn winds up posing as his dead double and finds questions regarding his death. Meanwhile, Arturo and Rembrandt find themselves in trouble with the law and face jail time.
